A tunnel has been the Big Four was producing at started near the level of Baffalo the rate of $2000 per day, which gulch which, at about 100 feet was true, and the paper is glad to will cut the same ledge the Burr- be able to announce that this week Thomas lease is on.

This vein outcrops boldly and is plainly in evidence for the distance ing almost directly into the hill, affords a great opportunity for effeetive work by tunnel.

side are attracting a great deal of elsewhere in the camp, if the same attention. They are fissures that intelligent and persistent effort be persistently cut the whole width pursued in development that has of the dolomite zone. A ladder characterized the present owners of of a half dozen of them traverses this section of the country at quite regular intervals. Though their outcrop for the greater part has been nearly barren of valuable medels the little work already done bas shown them to possess rich shoots of free gold and telluriles, The presence of horn silver has been noted in nearly every place thus opened. The veins are nearly vertical and often one wall consists of a narrow dike of black lime.

Embodied in the vein also, is much intrusive porphyritic matter, this part often being the best ore. The veins, moreover, are of good strong width, the lower outcrops often showing four feet of solid quartz.

During the past week the East Side Mining & Leasing company let two contracts for sinking. That on the Otero went to contractors who will drive the shaft to 115 feet under the agreement. The contract on the Burr-Thomas ground is takn by Daw on & Lerenzen, who will put the shaft to 100 feet.

Manhattan points with pride to the Big Four as an object lesson The diagonal veins on the east as to what may be accomplished the Big Four lease.

The Post still insists that there are other Big Fours to be opened up in this district, and it wishes showings equal to those of the to emphasize the fact that the are many prospects and surface Big Four, Union No. 9 and the White Caps when at the same stage of development.

The mining man or investor who fails to investigate the merits of the Manhattan district and the many opportunities where a little capital combined with experience will open a producing mine if not a bonanza, is certainly overlooking the "one best bet" of the year.

The record of Manhattan's mines is being written, not on the stock board, but in the mint returns.

The hydraulic workings continue to bring forth big surprises. Three blocks have been sluiced during the past ten days and all the parties interested will clean up far better than wages. The Kelleher block is now being run and judging from the appearance of the riffles Mr. Kelleher's gravel will run much better than any of the dirt sluiced on the hydraulic workings,

"THE JIMCRACKS."

An Old Prospector's Opinion, By Clarence E. Eddy.

I was always a hearty eater But I don't keer much for style favor something substantial That will stay with a feller awhile.

The jimeracks won't stay by you When it really come to a rub So I don't keer much for jimeracks But I'm hell on grub.

Some folks are just like jimeracks They are very sweet and nice When your pathway is all roses

And you have the ready price But then they won't stand by you When it really comes to a rub; Some fellers are like jimcracks And some like solid grab.

Some wimmin are like jimcracks When you have a heap of money And incline to spend it free But one that will stand by you When you haven't get the dough worth more than all the limeracks.

So I let the jimeracks go!

after things substantial And I don't keer much for style For life at best is trouble And lasts but a little while,

The plain and wholesome place Suit me better than the hub; don't keer much for limeracks But I'm hell on grub.
